Don't Be Exacting of One Another Is Advice of a Domestic Court Judge—Men and Women Losing Patience With One Another—Hats, Evening Gowns and Even Jewelry Seen in Black and White Combinations—Extreme Styles of Hosiery in Black and White Effects—Directions for Making Feather Mounds—Bright Feathers.

PATIENCE WITH ONE ANOTHER

Are men and women losing patience with one another? The more sense married folk have about everything else the less they seem to have about each other, says a domestic court judge. They are exacting of one another away out of all reasonableness with human nature. They lose sight of the all important proposition that it is love which is perfect, not themselves.

Men and women should think less of their mutual wrongs and more of their peculiar indebtedness to each other.

Over and above everything that married women can do for themselves they are a care and a responsibility to men. At times the majority of them actually are nuisances. The sweetest changes into the wife more than she ought to and still more the wife changes into the mother. The woman creates a home better suited to feminine taste and to the needs of her children than to those of her husband. The average home is nothing more than a grown up doll's house.

On the other hand, if woman has been a worry and a care to man, what shall we say of the devotion and persistence with which she has egged him up in the scale of things? It is not too much to say that she is a good part of the heaven of all righteousness he has ever acquired. Besides, she is the only creature in the world who knows how really weak and stupid man is and never tells.

Her patience with him in so simple a matter as his personal habits is worth considering. The average man would revert to the savage state on his point long before he did morally or intellectually if it were not for his woman-kind. It requires constant nagging on her part to keep the most excellent men from becoming social and domestic barbarians.

These are but a few of the things that prove men and women are so necessary to each other and so deeply in each other's debt that thoughts of mutual wrongs should be the last thing ever to enter their heads.

BLACK AND WHITE EFFECTS

STILL EXTREMELY MODISH
The tremendous, steadily increasing popularity of the black and white effects is attributed here to several different causes. Some describe the black and white color scheme as "virile," and declare its vogue emanates from that adjective. Others claim it is peculiarly becoming to women of all ages and all figures, and that it is because of its capacity to bring out the best in every woman that it is so universally liked. Still others there are who insist that since the beginning of time black and white has been indubitably the most effective of all color combinations, and that accordingly its popularity is not only not new but is rather world old.

First of all, the whole black hat which has prevailed so insistently for some time past is suffering a lapse of its one time vogue. Close

WITH A CARDINAL SASH.
The material of this afternoon dress is wool crepe, grey with an irregular white stripe, contrasting well with black velvet edging and the softly draped sash of cardinal red silk crepe. The surplus waist is closed by white pearl buttons and like the rest is plain in the back. The tunic is slightly gathered all around and hangs in a drooping curve in the clinging black velvet hats with feather trimmings two or three times as high as the hats are long are revealing twisted knots of broadened white velvet peeping out from underneath the folds of inky black material. One stunning hat shown in a most exclusive shop and giving evidence of the white intrusion was rather large with a flaring brim that was plain and a crown that was heavily draped. The hat was trimmed with frills of wired lace shaped to form wings in the back and caught together with a white broadened satin and rhinestone knot.

In evening gowns the black and white effect is extremely modish. A handsome model of white broadened chenille and crystal beads was covered with a shimmering mass of black tulle which fell over the whole gown. A tulle of this same black tulle veiled mistily another one of white tulle. Elaborately embroidered in crystal beads this trimming added to the glittering effect, while a sash of black tulle reaching huge proportions lent a decidedly bustle-like appearance to the back. A corsage bow of black velvet, its petals dripping with rhinestones, finished the gown in the same color scheme.

Much of the jewelry worn now shows a marked revival of jet and onyx, showing the same drift black and whitened in jewelry as in the matter of clothes. Wrist bracelets of black velvet studded with diamonds or rhinestones are still popular in new shapes, however. One design is so wide that it resembles a cuff on the upper arm, narrowing sharply underneath.

Black and white blouses, wonderfully simple and wonderfully effective, are being shown now in many of the most exclusive shops. One exquisitely frivolous blouse of fine shadow lace was vested with an oriental embroidery of crystals and pearls on a ground of black velvet. Soft tulle crushed in about the neck fell below the sleeves bandings of black satin. A stunning girdle of black satin added a distinctive note to the blouse.

So far there has been no diminishing popularity for the black velvet. The suit proper is untouched by white except in the blouse and in the hat. Hosiery has come in for its share of black and white effects. Tiny white embroidery clover blossoms on black silk stockings was one novelty design, and a rather bizarre idea was that of a white silk stocking with a huge black ostrich plume coiling downwards and around from knee to ankle.

TO MAKE FEATHER MOUNDS

Take a length of medium copper wire, and a little wire from the left end lay on a feather with the quill part cut short, twist the right-hand end of the wire around it firmly once or twice, and then add another feather, which must be treated in like manner. Finally wire in the third feather, twisting the two ends of wire into a star.

You should then have three feathers spreading like a fan, and mounted on a firm wire. If you have any difficulty in getting them into shape, wire each feather separately, and afterwards make them up into sets of three feathers each. When you have arranged three fans of the same length, make them into a fan-like background and wire securely.

Then you begin again repeating the process with smaller sets of feathers, and mounting them in exactly the same way, only in front of the background. Treasure up any specially bright little feathers you come across and wire them separately, for a bright touch of color here and there will make all the difference to your handiwork.

SUNRISE WINS BIG HORSE SHOW EVENT

New York, Nov. 20.—Sunrise, exhibited by Lieutenant Le Comte Albert D'Oultremont, of the first Belgian Lancers, won the feature event last night at the horse show in Madison Square Garden—the broad water jump—open to army officers for a cup presented by Robert A. Fairbairn. Ramoncho, exhibited by Chevalier Edward D. Moraville, second regiment of the guides, Belgium, was second, and Romeo, exhibited by the French government and ridden by Lieutenant Marquis D'Orgeix of the Sixth French Hussars, was third.

The event, a spectacular one, was marred by a mishap. In one of the trials, Commander, ridden by Lieutenant F. G. Alpers, crashed into a jump and then bolted through the gates, knocking down two spectators. Neither was seriously injured. The gold cup valued at $850, donated by Alfred Gwynn Vanderbilt for the best horse shown for a gig, was won by Judge William H. Moore, with his bay gelding, "Lord Seaton." The reserve ribbon went to Miss Louise Long of Kansas City, with her bay gelding, "Consternation."

At a meeting of the American Hackney society yesterday, Reginald Vanderbilt was elected president. The members of the society subscribed $1000 for the purchase of a suitable prize to be awarded at the show next year for the best registered hackney, native or imported. The purpose of this competition, it was explained, was to segregate the hackneys now shown in open harness classes, and demonstrate their merits as a breed.

Final possession of the Biltmore challenge cup for saddle horses was won last night by Miss Hope D. Atterbury, with Nickel Plate, a gray gelding. The same entry won the cup last year. This victory was significant on account of the fact that a number of foreign entries had special designs on this trophy. The competition was confined to private owners, dealers not being allowed to compete.

MISS WILSON GIVEN BEAUTIFUL GIFT

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—Miss Jessie Wilson, the White House bride-elect, received her $2000 present from the House today. The sparkling diamond pendant, resting in a satin-lined jewel box with a tiny key dangling from its heart-shaped lock, was taken to the White House by a member of the Washington jewelry firm, which has been preparing the gift.

The sentiment inscribed upon parchment paper accompanying the present read:

"The representatives of the people in congress send this gift to Miss Jessie Wilson, with their sincerest and best wishes as an evidence of the tender interest and hearty good will of all the people on the happy occasion of her marriage to Mr. Francis Bowes Sayre, November 25, 1913."

The names of the committee of the House signed to this sheet of parchment paper identical with that on which congress prints its legislative work were: Speaker Clark, Democrat; Leader Underwood, Republican; Leader Mann, Progressive; Leader Murdock and Representatives Cooper, Wisconsin; Henry, Texas; Campbell, Kansas; Hardwick, Georgia; Pike, North Carolina; Johnson, Kentucky; Palmer, Pennsylvania; Austin, Tennessee; Townsend, New Jersey; Fowler, Illinois; and Chandler, New York.

FOXES AND OTTERS UNDER PROTECTION

Washington, Nov. 20.—Secretary Redfield of the department of commerce today threw the governmental mantle over the foxes and the land otters in Afognak reservation in Alaska.

The order was issued because the game has suffered severely by reason of the recent volcanic disturbances in Alaska and the adjacent islands. Killing of foxes in the reservation is made unlawful until November 1918 and of land otters until November, 1915.

W. W. RAY IS BACK FROM WASHINGTON

Salt Lake, Nov. 20.—William W. Ray, candidate for appointment to the position of United States district judge for Utah, returned yesterday afternoon on the Los Angeles Limited from a trip to Washington, where he had been called to confer with United States Attorney General W. C. McReynolds.

Mr. Ray declined to discuss the nature of the business which called him to Washington or the progress of his candidacy for appointment to the position of district attorney. Relative to the appointment of federal officers in Utah, Mr. Ray said that the administration was looking into the Utah situation carefully, and he believed that whenever the appointments were made they would meet with the general approval of the Democrats in Utah.

Mrs. Ray accompanied her husband on the eastern trip and renewed many acquaintances in Washington, where she lived when her father, Joseph L. Rawlins was United States senator from Utah. Mr. and Mrs. Ray spent five days in Chicago, where they were at the time of the big storm on the Great Lakes.

Relative to his visit in Washington Mr. Ray said:

"My trip to Washington was made at the request of the attorney general. I was treated with the greatest courtesy by all whom I met in the department of justice, by the other government officials and by the Utah congressional delegation. The conference which I had with the attorney general was very satisfactory. I understand that the members of the administration are giving careful attention to the situation in Utah relative to federal appointments, and I feel sure that when the administration makes its appointments they will prove satisfactory to Democracy in Utah and to the public."

"One cannot fail to note the unanimity of the approval of the Wilson administration throughout the country. Practically everyone, irrespective of his politics, is warm in his praise for the masterful ability of President Wilson."

"The Mexican policy of the president has been practically the unanimous approval of congress. Relative to the Mexican situation, President Wilson has consulted all of the leading men of congress, irrespective of party, and has never attempted to make the situation a party issue."

"Both Mrs. Ray and myself were charmed with the people and the in-

BABY'S HEAD ITCHED AND BURNED

Red Pimple Grew Larger and Larger. Scratched Until It Bleed. Cured in a Week by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

Burns, Wyo.—"The trouble began on my baby when she was about four months old. A red pimple was seen at first and it grew larger and larger all the time on the back of her head. It looked scabby and it itched and burned and she began to scratch it and scratched until it would bleed. Sometimes she could not sleep and felt pretty cross."

"I tried different remedies, and other kinds but none of them would do any good. The trouble lasted till she was a year old and I saw an advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment so I sent for some. First I washed the sore part with the Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment and left it on for a while, then I washed it again with the Cuticura Soap. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured the sore in a week without a scar." (Signed) Mrs. Otto F. Heckly, Nov. 22, 1912.

CHIEF BLACK HORSE EAGER TO FIGHT

Farmington, N. M., Nov. 19.—"We will not surrender. We will fight," declared Chief Black Horse, leader of the recalcitrant Navajos encamped on Beautiful Mountain today, to peace envoys from Superintendent of the Ship Rock Agency W. T. Shelton. Even the news that troops are on the way to the agency failed to weaken the stand of the Navajos who are well fortified now, amply provisioned and thoroughly thrilled by the songs and dances of their medicine men, among whom are four of the renegades sought by the government for larceny, bigamy and assault.

The hostility of the Navajos was shown a few weeks ago when eleven attacked the agency and released their prisoners while a band of nearly a hundred gathered on the banks of the San Juan river watching the raid, prepared to go to the assistance of the raiders should the agency officials make armed resistance to the liberation of the prisoners.
